Over the last decade in his preaching classes, Michael Brothers has noticed a dramatic change in his students' responses to preaching: as listeners, they want not so much to be drawn in to a preached sermon as to be given room for their own interpretations and experiences. In Distance in Preaching Brothers argues that critical and aesthetic distance as a hermeneutical tool is vital to ...

Having noticed that sermon listeners generally want to be given room for their own interpretations and experiences, Brothers argues that critical and aesthetic distance as a hermeneutical tool is vital to hearing the gospel today and should be intentionally employed in sermon construction and delivery. He explains this "distance" in the field of homiletics, equips teachers and students of preaching to evaluate the function of distance in sermons, and encourages preachers to practice the use ...
